

WELCOME TO CAVALRY REALTY LLC...

Thomas Stewart is the Broker of Record. Thomas has been a successful real estate agent for the past 15 years. In 2007, Thomas earned his broker's license and in May 2007, he opened his own real estate business, Cavalry Realty LLC.

The company's motto is "We'll come to your rescue". This motto came about because of the urgent calls he would receive from potential clients who were in desperate need of his services in selling their homes or in relocating and finding the home of their dreams.

Cavalry Realty LLC takes on the standard of the early U.S. military cavalry units which comprised soldiers that prided themselves on their ability to be mobile, well-trained, positive, enthusiastic, able to adapt their fighting stance to fit the situation, who were timely in their military support and crucial in being able to multiply the fighting value of even the smallest entity they assisted, allowing that entity to overcome and gain the victory in their situation.

With 15 years of real estate experience "under his belt", he has seen just about everything, dealt with and solved a multitude of real estate issues and helped a small army of clients achieve their goals and within their means, walking them through every step with compassion and knowledge.

Thomas currently runs Cavalry Realty LLC with the help of staff, several office managers and many agents. Jennifer Stewart, Tom's wife, works with him as the company's bookkeeper. Thomas currently has several satellite offices throughout south central Pennsylvania.

In the upcoming years, Thomas plans to build and achieve an even higher success rate by providing trained, savvy and experienced real estate agents and by continuing to build a network of satellite offices to better serve our clients, providing a convenient location for them to access us, as well as providing our agents with offices closer to the towns and cities they live in.
